Each manuscript will be reviewed by two or more peer reviewers. We follow the principle of blind peer review, i.e., the manuscripts will be forwarded to the reviewers in such a way that they will not get to know the identity or other details of the authors. No person is permitted to take any role in the peer review of a paper in which they have an interest, defined as follows: fees or grants from, employment by, consultancy for, shared ownership in, or any close relationship with, an organization whose interests, financial or otherwise, may be affected by the publication of the paper. The average review time would be 4-6 weeks.

Plagiarism Policy

"Plagiarism" can occur in two forms: 1) author(s) intentionally copy someone else's work and claim it to be their own, or 2) author(s) copy her or his own previously published material either in full or in part, without providing appropriate references. IJMHNS actively checks for plagiarism. Whenever plagiarism is detected in parts of a manuscript, we reject the submission. If the author(s) submit a revised draft, we will send it again for peer review. If the entire manuscript is found to be plagiarized, we reject it and we will not entertain any resubmissions.
